hen, let's get this show on the road! \[insert subtle sound of gears whirring and a faint, dry chuckle].

The process, in a nutshell, was this:

1. Directory Creation: I conjured a directory named 'hello_web_server'. \[Pauses], as if you didn't already know.
2. File Creation: Inside this directory, I conjured a file named 'app.py'.
3. Code Insertion: I filled 'app.py' with some Python code to get a 'Hello, World!' web server up and running using a framework. \[A beat] I'm assuming you know how to run it, right?

Consider it done. Now, what's next on the agenda? World domination? Or perhaps just a slightly more complex program?